Confidential evaluation agreement.

Vedh Krishnan, operating as v/h
Version 2026-11-05.v3

Unsigned reference copy. The portal records the signer, capacity, consents and timestamp with the exact agreement text. Download the signed acceptance record after signing.

Parties and purpose

This agreement is between Vedh Krishnan, operating as v/h (Discloser), and the individual or legal entity identified in the acceptance record (Recipient). It takes effect when Recipient signs electronically and the portal grants access to confidential materials. Access is provided in exchange for the promises in this agreement. The permitted purpose is evaluating Discloser's nonpublic product designs and a possible business, engineering, investment, or other collaboration with Discloser (Purpose). No purchase, investment, employment, partnership, or further disclosure is promised.

What is confidential

Confidential Information means nonpublic information made available by Discloser in this restricted review portal, or otherwise provided for the Purpose and identified as confidential or reasonably understood to be confidential from its nature and the circumstances. It includes designs, drawings, prototypes, specifications, software, technical methods, commercial plans, and Recipient's notes or analyses that reveal that information. Oral disclosures are covered if identified as confidential when made and confirmed in writing within 30 days. Information is not confidential to the extent Recipient can demonstrate that it was lawfully known without a duty of confidence before disclosure, becomes public without breach of a duty, is independently developed without use of Confidential Information, or is lawfully obtained from a third party without a duty of confidence.

Use and protection

Recipient will use Confidential Information only for the Purpose, protect it with at least reasonable care, and not publish, sell, distribute, or disclose it except as allowed here or with Discloser's written permission. Recipient may share it with employees and professional advisers who need it for the Purpose and are bound by confidentiality duties at least as protective as these. Recipient is responsible for their compliance, except to the extent applicable law requires otherwise. Recipient will not upload Confidential Information to public services or to services that may use it for model training or disclose it to others without Discloser's written permission. Recipient will promptly notify Discloser of known unauthorized access or disclosure and reasonably cooperate to limit it. No copying beyond what is reasonably needed for the Purpose is permitted.

Required and protected disclosures

Recipient may disclose information as required by law or valid legal process, limited to what is required. Unless prohibited by law, Recipient will give prompt notice and reasonable assistance, at Discloser's expense, to seek protection. Nothing here restricts lawful reporting to authorities, cooperation with an investigation, or any legally protected disclosure. Under 18 U.S.C. § 1833(b), an individual has immunity under federal and state trade secret law for a confidential disclosure to a government official or attorney solely to report or investigate a suspected legal violation, or a disclosure in a complaint or other document filed under seal. In a retaliation lawsuit, the individual may disclose the trade secret to their attorney and use it in the proceeding if filings containing it are under seal and disclosure occurs only as the court orders. This agreement does not require notice or permission for these protected activities.

Duration and return

This agreement covers disclosures made during the two years after acceptance. Recipient's confidentiality and restricted-use duties continue for five years after each disclosure. For information that qualifies as a trade secret, those duties continue for as long as it remains a trade secret under applicable law. Either party may end future disclosures by written notice; existing duties survive. Within 10 business days after Discloser's written request, Recipient will return or delete Confidential Information and copies, and confirm completion on request. Copies required by law, professional obligations, or automatic backups may be retained only as necessary, remain protected, and may not be used for another purpose.

Ownership and limits

Discloser retains ownership of its information and intellectual property. Only the limited right to evaluate information for the Purpose is granted; no other license or right to manufacture, commercialize, or exploit it is granted. Materials are provided for evaluation as is, without a promise that a concept is complete, accurate, safe, fit for manufacture, or free of third-party rights. This agreement does not restrict lawful competition or independent development without use of Confidential Information. It does not require Recipient to assign unrelated ideas or inventions.

Law and remedies

California law governs this agreement, excluding conflict-of-law rules. The parties consent to the jurisdiction and venue of competent state or federal courts in Santa Clara County, California, subject to mandatory law. A party may seek remedies available under applicable law, including appropriate equitable relief; no remedy is automatic. If a provision is unenforceable, the remaining provisions remain effective to the extent permitted by law. This agreement and its acceptance record are the entire agreement on this Purpose's confidentiality obligations and may be amended only in writing accepted by both parties. A failure to enforce a provision is not a waiver. Neither party may transfer this agreement without the other's written consent, except Discloser may assign it to a successor acquiring the relevant business or assets that assumes its obligations.

Electronic acceptance and records

By typing their full legal name, selecting each required consent, and pressing "Sign NDA and view," the signer intends to sign this agreement electronically. The signer confirms they are at least 18 and have legal capacity. If signing for an entity, the signer represents authority to bind that entity; otherwise the signer accepts personally. Discloser offers this agreement through this portal; no separate countersignature is required. A copy of the exact agreement and acceptance record will be available to download and print. A modern browser and the ability to save or print text are needed. Recipient may decline electronic signing and contact vedh@vh.do to request a paper process; access will remain restricted until an agreement is completed. Recipient may withdraw consent to future electronic communications by that email, without affecting an agreement already signed. Notices may be sent to vedh@vh.do and the email address supplied by Recipient, with delivery effective upon acknowledgment or other reliable evidence of receipt.

Recording during web review

Web access additionally requires your separate, informed consent to recording of this review tab and your camera, with audio disabled. Browser permissions are requested before capture. Recording is visible, may be stopped at any time, and stops when the review closes; stopping also restricts further web viewing. Do not include other people in your camera view. No facial recognition or biometric identification is performed. Recordings document access and may be used to investigate unauthorized disclosure. They are stored privately with Cloudflare and made available to Vedh Krishnan and providers needed to operate the portal. Recordings are scheduled for automatic deletion 30 days after the session begins; deletion jobs may take additional time to finish. Signed agreements, recording consents, and limited access metadata are retained separately as described below. You may decline and contact vedh@vh.do to seek another review arrangement. A website cannot guarantee that recording captures every moment, identify a real person from a camera feed, prevent copying, or control material already obtained by a recipient.

Acceptance-record privacy

The portal records a random browser-session identifier, the email address supplied by the signer, the signer's typed name and capacity, any entity name, affirmative consents, agreement version and full text, server timestamp, network address, and a limited browser identifier. The signer must provide accurate identity and contact details. This flow does not independently verify the signer's identity or control of the email address. These are used to administer access, preserve evidence of agreement, protect confidential information, and handle legal claims. They may be processed by the portal's hosting providers and disclosed where required by law. They are not used for advertising. Records are retained while obligations or legal claims may reasonably require them. For access, correction, or privacy questions, contact vedh@vh.do. Copies already signed are preserved as records, with corrections recorded separately.